Gavin Maynard tells of experience with food allergies

by Aalex Hubin

The second week of May is Food Allergy Awareness Week in the U.S. Over 32 million Americans suffer from food allergies. According to Food Allergy Research and Education, every three minutes, a food allergy reaction sends someone to the emergency room.

One of the 32 million is Gavin Maynard, a sophomore at Canby High School. Maynard's allergies became apparent at a young age after he broke out in hives from ingesting peanut butter. After visiting an allergist, Maynard was found to be allergic to peanuts and tree nuts. Maynard has an EpiPen on him at all times but thankfully has not had to use it.

While some food allergies, like to milk or eggs, can be outgrown, allergies to peanuts and tree nuts are usually lifelong, which means Maynard will be dealing with this allergy for his lifetime. Maynard remembers his parents helping him figure out what foods were and were not safe for him to eat when he was younger, but he is now a pro at knowing what to avoid and makes sure to check labels of any new foods. While it may have bothered him in his younger years to not be able to partake in the same foods and snacks as his peers, he says, "I just got used to it."

With Mother's Day just behind us, it is important to understand how food allergies in young children affect their mothers as well. Mothers with children under the age of five are found to have higher blood pressure and significantly greater levels of psychosocial stress. Parents of children with food allergies are found to avoid restaurants and restrict social activities and travel.

Researchers don't know why, but food allergies are on the rise in the U.S. Use this week to educate yourself on common food allergies as well as what you can do to help raise awareness for food allergies. For more information, visit www.foodallergyawareness.org.

City council approves airport hanger project

by Aalex Hubin

During their May 5 meeting, the Canby City Council approved an airport hanger project as well as a public hearing for police body cams.

Matt Wagner spoke to the council about recommendations regarding the new hanger and humidity issues they have been having at the airport.

Wagner started by giving a brief overview of how the airport works and explained how funding is utilized. Over the past 15 years, the airport has used the $150,000 a year in federal funds to put in a fuel system, buy a bidirectional loader, improve pavement, and build a new hanger. The main revenue source for the airport comes from hangar rent, hangar leases, land leases, and fuel sales. As a public use airport, Canby does not collect any landing fees.

Around three years ago, the airport used their federal funding, both forward and back, to complete the new hanger project. The new hanger cost

SPRING PLANTING

Planting continues in the area with the help of a relatively dry spring. Last week, Mike Knutson was one of many out working in the fields.

School board approves security improvements, discusses goals

by Melissa Denelsbeck

The Canby School Board approved school security improvements and discussed goals during their May 3, meeting.

Superintendent Ryan Nielsen said it has been several years since security improvements were made, and the safe schools budget has grown to almost $100,000. Areas he would like to see cameras added include the hallways outside the bathrooms on the second and third floors, the north side of the gym, the alley way, the bus loading zone, and the cafeteria at the high school as well as the north side of the elementary school.

Updating the door software which programs the locks and key fobs is another option, though it could wait until later.

The board approved the security improvements.

Hiring a summer strength and conditioning coach was approved. He is a Southwest Minnesota State University student who interned last year in the position and would like to come back again.

The position will be four hours each day, four days a week at $17.50 an hour. This will give students a window of opportunity to come work out during the summer.

Board member Kari Harding asked whether this is a position that could be kept during the school year, and Nielsen responded that it's a possibility.

Nielsen reported that breakfast and lunch will be free again next year for all students. Refunds for existing balances will be given upon request.

The junior high concert is Tuesday, May 11. Graduation practice is May 14 at 2 p.m. with graduation on May 21 at 7 p.m. High school Principal Dr. Robert Slaba said that names were randomly drawn for which graduate would have what table. He reiterated that those seated at a graduate's table should plan to arrive together.

Preschool graduation will be May 12 for Little Lancers and May 13 for Little Lancers Plus. The Little Learner breakfast will be May 13 as well. The Little Lancers Plus class will be coming back for two weeks at the end of the school year due to being quarantined. Their last day will be May 27.

The elementary spring program will be May 17. There will be three concerts about 20-25 minutes long each and spaced out with K-1 at 6 p.m., 2-3 at 6:45 p.m., and 4-6 at 7:30 p.m. They will be held at the high school to have more room to space people out.

Aalex Hubin joins Canby News staff

Canby News would like to welcome Aalex Hubin to the team.

Hubin resides on an acreage outside of Canby with her significant other, Keith Olson, and two children, Violet and Bryn. Hubin is the owner of Dusty Skies Designs and is also a new member of Canby for Kids.

Hubin graduated from Westbrook-Walnut Grove High School and received a B.S. in English/speech education from MSU, Mankato. She lived in her hometown of Westbrook until this past summer when she relocated to the area after accepting a position at Canby High School. She is leaving teaching after 13 years to pursue the dream of homeschooling her children.

Hubin is excited to begin a new journey at the Canby News and looks forward to becoming more involved within the community.

around $1 million. While everyone was happy with the new hangar in the beginning, there have been some humidity issues since, which is common in steel buildings. Wagner went on to explain that they believe the problem with the humidity stems from the floors staying cold a majority of the summer and the warm air hitting the tin on the outside which causes condensation.

Currently, all six individual units and two larger units are full. For the past two years, the customers have not been happy with the humidity issue. Wagner has tried buying fans and other things to fix the problem and is worried that if they cannot find a solution, they will start losing customers.

Last year, the airport received $30,000 in COVID funds to be used for a project. The airport has chosen to use this money to solve the humidity problem. One solution is to add commercial dehumidifiers to every unit. The second solution is to mimic what is happening in the city building which is located at the end of the hangar which is using an exhaust fan. The first year, the city did not use the fans, and there was a problem with mold in the trucks. The second year, they turned the exhaust fans on around this time of year, let them run for six months, and had zero problems with humidity or mold.

The council was previously presented with the recommendation of adding commercial dehumidifiers. After more research, it was found that it would cost $17.50 per month per unit to run the dehumidifiers. Right now, units are rented out at $95-105 per month, which is higher than surrounding airports. When the hangar was built, they declined putting in separate meters and instead raised the rent to cover costs.

Summer is right around the corner! Can you even stand it? Well ... I can. We have my sweet nephew's wedding, and I came to a hard realization. I need to shed some weight. I hear people say all the time, "ugh, I have to lose the pounds I gained over the winter." Well, I have to lose weight from a lot of winters. Yep. I actually started thinking this about a month ago, when I apparently started up with an even more annoying and louder snoring habit, or so my husband said. Case in point, the other morning, I came bounding out of the bedroom, shouting "good morning all!" (kidding, I was limping with an arthritic hip telling the kids to turn down the tv) and Ron said, "jeez, I had to shove my ear plugs so far into my ear that this morning I had to fish it out with the tweezers."

Okay, really? It's that bad? I kind of call bologna on that. I mean, he sleeps like he's in a coma, and I remember being pregnant for the first six years of our marriage, and he snored like the county plow going down the road. I'd literally cry because I couldn't stay in bed, and I spent most of my nights on the couch. Now, I'm just used to it. Like he should be. It's all about love, and like I tell him, it's all in your head. You can literally make yourself adapt. Right? PSHAW, I say ... animals, nature, people adapt to things all the time.

So I have formulated a plan of action. Sit down, kids, (and Ron) we're going to really cut back on our sugar and processed food intake. Now, don't get me wrong! I LOVE to cook. And bake. But the thing is, I love to make bread from scratch, pasta and sauces, we love gravy ... etc. What's your downfall? Ours? White flour (baking lol), chocolate (we have a snacking bag of chocolate chips at all times), chips and salsa, crackers, koolaid, candy and pop.

This weekend, I researched clean eating. I personally love clean eating, and this is a good plan. As a single mom, I used to cook like this a lot. When I met Ron, we kind of met in the middle. Him and the two kids ate junk and ate out all the time. Ashlyn and I ate a lot of garden produce and chicken. I remember when my mom met Ron, Kara and Cody for the first time. She asked if they liked candy. "We did before we met your daughter." That still makes me laugh.

What's your favorite vegetable? I have so many! I love avocado, green beans, carrots, etc. Ron: Corn. He doesn't believe that it's a starch and not really a vegetable. Well, he likes peas and, since I've cooked them so many times, brussel sprouts. It did cross my mind this weekend that Big Daddy (Ron), you're not going to like this clean eating biz. Smirk, smirk. But I guess it's either me snoring or a lettuce salad; you choose. Because honestly, we could all benefit from this. Especially Ron, since he's diabetic. My boys won't be fans either. But I can see my girls loving this.

Have I thought about fad diets, powders, coffees and shakes? Yes. I personally know that I won't stick with it. Ron will NOT do those either. We just need to make a lifestyle change, so you know, we can watch all our kids go down the aisle like my sister gets to. Oh, and we have to exercise more.

So there you have it. I'll put a picture on the chocolate chip cupboard of me when I first moved here to keep me accountable, you know, before I became like a bear going into hibernation.

Until next time,

Melissa's Musings by Melissa Denelsbeck

It is really surreal to be looking at the end of a journey that, when it began, felt like it would be so long.

My husband graduates this week, having completed the med fire rescue program at Lake Area Tech. He is now a paramedic and a firefighter and is looking for a job that will, ideally, incorporate both, and we'll be off on a whole new journey.

Two years ago, when we truly began to realize that farming was not our future after all, there were a lot of questions about what came next. Many options were discussed. How much he had enjoyed the tactical trauma response course he had taken and his trip to Texas to serve with Samaritan's Purse earlier that year was always in the back of our minds.

And then, one day, it just seemed to fall into place, and he decided on the med fire rescue program. I honestly had never thought of him as a paramedic, or any other medical-related job, mostly due to all the technical reading required. He was always more a hands-on learner than a reader.

He got accepted to school, and after a couple weeks of him driving back and forth, we started looking for a place to live in Watertown. For someone who had never signed a lease that couldn't be gotten out of with 30 days notice, the idea of nearly a year commitment was terrifying. I vividly remember sitting on the floor of the empty living room of our home, looking at lease papers with an end date 10.5 months away (they wanted to get the dates in line with the school year). I was thinking that it was so far away; how could we possibly know that we would want to stay that long?

When we renewed the lease that next summer, for a whole year this time, I kind of had the same feelings again. And then, just this month, when we said we would not be renewing our lease, that was almost as scary as signing it in the first place.

More than 18 months after starting school and moving, we're looking at moving again in the next few months, and while I once felt that it would be such a long time, now I can't believe it's come upon us so quickly.

I don't know where we will end up or when. I only know that come Aug. 1, we have to be somewhere else.

Five years ago, when I believed I was living in a house on a farm where I would live for the rest of my life, the idea of not knowing where I would be or what I would be doing in three months would have been terrifying.

Now, somehow, it's almost as exciting as it is scary. Maybe I've gotten used to living with that uncertainty. Maybe I've broken free of the continuity of farm life - even though nearly nothing went as expected, you always at least knew where you would be and what you would be doing.

Never before did we have options. We were always tied to the seasons, tied to a piece of ground, tied to caring for the animals. Even vacations were limited. And to be honest, we didn't really mind. We loved what we did.

And even though every new step of our new journey is scary in its own way, there's also an excitement to be found in possibility, in knowing that we have options.

I guess the point in all that rambling is to try not to be afraid of making big decisions, big changes that will alter the trajectory of your life. Don't be afraid of switching careers or going back to school or doing whatever is necessary to get you to where you're supposed to be in life, even if it is somewhere you never ever pictured yourself.

The same amount of time will pass whether you're pursuing something new or stuck somewhere you don't want to be, so don't use lack of time as an excuse.

Be open. Be willing to learn. Be brave.

Or as a quote on my computer says, "Do it scared!"

CONROY CHRONICLE By Adam Conroy

Every father loves to see some of their traits reflected in their children.

The apple not falling far from the tree.

Cut from the same cloth.

Last week alone, I saw myself in all three of my kids, and it brought a tear to my eye.

Teagan, the 10-year-old middle child, loves basketball and softball. We have been practicing both, led by her asking the old man to shoot some hoops or have a catch.

She's the type of kid that will shoot in the driveway for hours, catch hundreds of pop ups, then chew a bag of sunflower seeds. What every sports fanatic would want in a daughter.

She's a big Timberwolves fan and loves Ricky Rubio, even sending him a Flat Stanley a few years ago and getting signed basketball cards in return.

Then there is 2-year-old Rowan. He's got a sweet left-handed swing and thinks fire and beer are pretty cool.

The other day, we were playing in the backyard and Rowan said he was hungry. I asked him what he wanted to eat and he said, "I cwean, fwench fwies, i cwean cone, fwench fwies and burger."

Those who speak toddler know he asked for ice cream, french fries, ice cream cone, french fries and a burger. A perfect meal.

And then there is 16-year-old Mya.

We have a strikingly similar sense of humor and level of stubbornness. We're both shoe addicts with a knack for the written word.

Mya has found her niche in sports and has hit her stride running track. I never ran track - only ran from the cops - but both of us have the ability to pull away from someone chasing us.

The other day, we hit the links and played a few holes of golf. Mya and I were both struggling and hitting the ball to the right, me with the irons and her with the woods. With every shank comes a swear word, and Mya figured that out on hole four when she put another ball in the ditch and said, "damn it."

Like any good dad, I told her, "Now you're golfing."

On hole seven, she grabbed my driver to give it a try. The first one went a little left and second one went straight. Both sounded weird, but I've never heard anyone else hit my driver, so I figured it was just the sound it made.

We wrapped up our round and parked the cart. I took a look at my driver and saw two dents on the toe and a big crack. That's where she hit the ball, and that's what sounded so weird.

And that's what brought tears to my eyes.

Did you hear the one . . .

A man was walking down the streets of Washington DC one night. All of a sudden, a mugger sticks a gun in his ribs and says, "Give me all your money!"

He replied, "Do you realize I am an important member of congress?"

The robber said, "In that case, give me all my money!"

Minnesota's COVID restrictions to loosen in three-phase plan

by Melissa Denelsbeck

Minnesota Governor Tim Walz announced a three-phase loosening of COVID restrictions last Thursday, with the first phase already in effect and coming phases to begin May 28 and July 1.

As of May 7, limits for outdoor dining, events, and get-togethers are removed as is the mask requirement outdoors, except at large venues of more than 500 people. Additionally, masks are not required at outdoor events without a controlled perimeter, such as a parade or fireworks display. Also ended is the 11 p.m. mandatory closing time for bars, restaurants, and other businesses serving food and drink. The capacity for indoor areas is capped at 75% of the maximum occupancy, and no more than 10 customers may be seated together.

On May 28, the remaining capacity and distancing limits will end for indoor events and gatherings. These limits have been in place since the very first stay at home order in mid-March of 2020. The only requirements remaining will be the mask mandate for indoors as well as outdoor events of more than 500 people.

July 1 will bring an end to the statewide mask mandate as well as the requirement for businesses to have COVID preparedness plans. Local governments/cities or private businesses can implement their own mandates if they wish.

Walz stated that the mask mandate may end sooner if 70% of Minnesota's adults have received their COVID shots.

The Safe Learning Plan for schools will continue through the end of the school year, and the eviction moratorium, ban on price gouging, and eligibility exemptions for state services will remain in place.

There was no mention of Walz's intention regarding his emergency powers.

Correction

An error was made in last week's story about the meeting of the Yellow Medicine County Fair board. The article stated that Johnny Holmes had been booked to come to the fair. That is incorrect. The board had tried to book Holmes but had not been able to.

Also, the balloon twister mentioned as having been booked for Saturday of the fair was actually booked for Sunday.

BREVITY

PRODUCE

It is now recommended to add exhaust fans with a humidistat switch which would allow the fans to operate when the humidity goes above the set level. Wagner used a hypothetical situation that if these fans ran for three months straight, it would cost $4.60 per month per unit on average. Council members liked the idea of the exhaust fans.

Wagner reminded the council that the bids for both the dehumidifiers and the exhaust fans came out at around $30,000. The bid from Anhalt Plumbing and Rangaard Electric for $29,335 for the exhaust fans was approved.

Chief of Police Eric Diekmann addressed the proposed body-worn cameras the council had previously discussed. Diekmann started with the proposed body-worn camera policy. The policy allows more officer discrepancy as to when the body cameras will be used. Diekmann went on to use the example of an officer anticipating something that might be of evidentiary value versus any public interaction an officer were to have on the street. The policy also includes information on data privacy and safeguards.

First Security Bank donated $15,666 for the three body cameras. "I cannot thank them enough," said Diekmann. The $15,666 is based off the three body camera Axon system. Diekmann does have a meeting with Watchguard next week where they will be presenting quotes for a three body camera system and also for a three body camera system plus two in car. This will help guide the decision of how to proceed. Diekmann will have a final number to present by the next council meeting.

The council also approved the public hearing for the body camera policy for June 1.

Terry Gaalswyk, president of Minnesota West, updated the council on how the school has fared this past year with COVID. Enrollment was down 7.4% collectively across the institution, which is similar to the decline in the system as a whole. The primary decline in enrollment stemmed from two areas, one being student athletes, which mainly affected the Worthington campus, and the second being the nursing program and allied health programs. Many of these students work in long term care facilities and clinics and were needed in the field last year. On the Canby campus, the electrical program was strong while the diesel and dental programs were both down.

Fall enrollment is looking up. Electrical is already full for next year, which is attributed to the remodel of the program's space last year. There are plans to update the diesel tech space this summer as well as the restrooms on campus. Minnesota West has been working diligently to make sure classes can be in-person next fall. "It's hard to learn how to run a bead through simulation," Gaalswyk said.

Due to the enrollment decline, Minnesota West will be offering a Free Bird scholarship. Students can come take a three-credit class over the summer months for free. Gaalswyk wants to ensure that "The talent here in southwest Minnesota engages with the institution" and then stays within the area. Minnesota West has also been using stimulus dollars to help in student aid due to financial stress this past year.

Lastly, Gaalswyk spoke of the farm business management program. Thirteen facility members across southwest Minnesota work with over 500 producers in regards to their operations. "They help them understand their business operations ... their inputs, their outputs, their marketing strategies and everything else to be profitable, and they are able to provide evidence back to the producer in regards to how they are performing relative to their peers," explained Gaalswyk. Five more faculty members have been added to the Minnesota West program which enhances their reach in the northern parts of their service area. They will now be able to work with about 650 producers in the region.

Sheila Khrose, of Bolton and Menk, updated the city on the ongoing infrastructure project. At the time of the meeting, Khrose had a list of 111 yards that she found unacceptable in regards to the reseeded grass in yards and boulevards. If the company does not rectify the situation by the first of June, Canby will be searching for a new landscaper.

She also requested a final payment to Pennings Construction for their work on the tennis court, which was approved.

Deb Lanthier gave the annual library report. Last year, the library was closed for 14 weeks. Once reopened, the library followed COVID protocols by limiting the number of people inside at one time, asking patrons to social distance, and requiring masks upon entry. Computer use is limited to two patrons at a time with a one hour limit. Computer usage was down from 8,000 to 923. The library also saw a 10,000 person decline in in-person visits, but 1,085 patrons opted for curbside delivery. The library plans to continue this offer and will also continue to offer their take and make kits, live and virtual programs, and are once again delivering books to assisted living. They also have Mobile Signs on the Go coming for a Hat Days sign making activity.

The Tesch family asked to end their theater lease agreement with the city. The council motioned to terminate the old theater lease and approved the new lease for Lessor and Ferguson Entertainment.

The next council meeting will be held on May 19 at 6 p.m.

"The chancellor of Minnesota State Colleges and Universities turned down Canby's request to split the Canby Campus of Southwestern Technical College away from STC ... the plan to split Canby away was proposed as an alternative to current plans that have so far removed the campus president, dean of students and campus student recruiter. A change in status from a campus to a learning center has been offered. The plan was developed through the efforts of the faculty and staff and was sent to Eaton."

"The Canby City Council indicated it was ready to do anything it could to assure a future for the Canby campus of Southwestern Technical College. The city's John Meyer said the plan being pursued was to break off from STC and to become an independent institution ... Meyer said no one has said straight out what the school's future will be if nothing is done, other than it would become a 'center' instead of a fully functioning campus."

"What's the Canby Campus of Southwestern Technical College worth to the Canby Public Schools? 'If they closed down tomorrow, we could lose up to 50 kids - that's $250,000 gone along with some jobs,' said Superintendent Marv Nieden during a meeting of the Canby School Board."

"With 19 in attendance at their May 3 meeting, the Canby City Council decided to have a committee formed and a traffic engineer do a study to come up with a revised stop sign policy for the city."

"After a planning commission meeting held prior to the Canby City Council's May 3 meeting, the council approved to introduce an ordinance to rezone the property owned by Brent Merritt and Helena from Industrial A to Commercial A. This is for the corner of Highway 68 and Haarfager Ave. South that was once owned by Helena and for the office building to the 'east' that is still owned by Helena. Merritt wishes to build on the property but needs the property reclassified to commercial from industrial."

"Abby Theisen ... received a .22 rifle at the Canby Sportsmen's Club April 30 from Frank Mitchell of the American Legion 109, Gary."

Hannah Merritt of MAS Media Design spoke during the May 6 Rotary Club meeting of her business creating websites and marketing plans.

Utility relocation work begins ahead of Highway 68 project

Work to relocate utilities, ahead of 2022 construction, in MnDOT's right of way (ROW) will begin this spring and continue through the summer and fall. MnDOT employees are currently placing stakes to mark the ROW for utility relocation work. State property should be kept free and clear unless otherwise permitted to do so.

Construction on the Highway 68 Minnesota to Marshall project is planned to begin in the spring of 2022. Improvements will be made to approximately eleven miles of Highway 68 from North Grant Street in Minnesota to the Redwood River in Marshall. Drainage improvements near Porter are also included in the project.

For more information on the project, please visit the project webpage at www.mndot.gov/d8/projects/hwy68minneotamarshall or contact Project Manager Chris Nienaber at 320-905-3056 or via email at christopher.nienaber@state.mn.us.

Travelers may encounter lane closures or lane shifts, uneven road surfaces, heavy equipment and other unexpected obstacles when driving near or through work zones. MnDOT asks drivers to:

- Slow down when approaching every work zone, then navigate with care and caution
- Stay alert; watch for workers and slow-moving equipment
- Obey posted speed limits; fine for a work zone violation is $300
- Minimize distractions behind the wheel and while walking or biking
- Be patient and expect delays, especially during peak travel times

Robert Edward Briggs was born on August 31, 1936, on the family farm in Norman Township, Yellow Medicine County, Minnesota, to Ralph and E. Margaret (Spanton) Briggs. He attended Canby Public Schools and graduated in 1954. Following his education, he worked with his father on the farm until entering the United States Army in 1957. Robert was stationed in Germany and was honorably discharged in August of 1959 and returned home to the farm.

Grateful for having shared Robert's life are his wife, Arlene Briggs of Canby, MN; sister, Edith Carey; and numerous nieces, nephews, and cousins.

Robert was preceded in death by his parents.

Blessed be his memory.

Minneota - For Gail Boe, a 1999 Minneota graduate now living in New Ulm, the dream of writing a book recently became a reality. "I have always wanted to write and try to write a book," Boe said. "And I had an idea for one, but I didn't do anything about it. Then, I thought I'd better do it before someone else came up with the same idea." With the pandemic hitting last year, Boe also had more time to work on the book. Boe, the daughter of Wayne and Kathy Wyffels of Minneota, can now call herself an author after her children's book, "Lettuce" was published by Mascot Books of Herndon, Virginia. "'Lettuce' is a book about encouraging kids to do what they feel most comfortable doing," said Boe. "So lettuce means 'let us,' as in let us do what we do best. It's about celebrating people's differences."

Question: If a person has a medical exception to a specified window tint level (per medical prescription by medical provider), do you have to register that exception/prescription with the state? Or register the car that has the applied tint?

Answer: It is not necessary to notify the Department of Public Safety Driver Vehicle Services (DPS-DVS) in Minnesota. DVS doesn't place window tint/medical restriction on the driver's license or on the vehicle's registration. Drivers will need to have a prescription or proof from their doctor regarding the medical need to have tinted windows below the 50 percent light transmittance plus or minus 3 percent.

The proper document will need to be in the vehicle to show law enforcement upon request. The document will need to specifically state the minimum percentage that light transmittance may be reduced to satisfy the prescription or medical needs of the patient; and the prescription or statement contains an expiration date, which must be no more than two years after the date the prescription or statement was issued.

If the window tint is below the state minimum of 50 percent light transmittance, that vehicle may be stopped by law enforcement, as the officer will not be aware of the medical exemption.

In Minnesota, you can have your windows tinted to a light transmittance of 50 percent, but not less. Light transmittance is the amount of light that is required to pass through both the window and the tint film. Before any tint material is applied to your windows, a vehicle comes from the factory with tint already inside the glass material. No window comes from the factory at 100 percent light transmittance. My experience has been that most vehicles are already at 75 percent before any modifications.

- No vehicle can have ANY tint to the front windshield.
- Passenger cars are limited to 50 percent on all side and rear windows.
- Pickups, vans, and SUVs are limited to 50 percent on the front side windows.
- Pickups, vans, and SUVs are not limited on the rear side and rear windows. (Can be less than 50 percent behind the front seat).
- Squad cars, limousines, and vehicles used to transport human remains by a funeral establishment are not limited on the side and rear windows.

If you let Christ work you over, you will come out purely golden.

If Roses Grow in Heaven
by Dolores M. Garcia

If roses grow in heaven,
Lord please pick a bunch for me.
Place them in my Mother's arms and tell her they're from me.
Tell her I love her and miss her,
and when she turns to smile,
place a kiss upon her cheek
and hold her for awhile.
Because remembering her is easy,
I do it every day,
but there's an ache within my heart
that will never go away

Troopers have window tint meters in their patrol cars and will test the windows for the legal percent of light transmittance if they look to be below the statutory limit. If they are found below the legal limit, the driver may be issued a citation.

Rep. Swedzinski statement re: ruling on the governor's California cars initiative

State Rep. Chris Swedzinski, R-Ghent, issued the following statement Friday after a state administrative law judge signed off on Gov. Tim Walz's California cars initiative he is seeking to implement via administrative rulemaking, bypassing the legislative process. Swedzinski is the lead Republican on the House Climate and Energy Finance and Policy Committee.

"We continue to hear from constituents from across the state that they absolutely do not support implementing California's car standards in Minnesota and forcing auto dealers to stock vehicles that may not sell, which will drive up all vehicle prices," Swedzinski said. "Rather than forcing another mandate from on high, we urge Gov. Walz and the Pollution Control Agency to work with the legislature and auto dealers to find a more practical and workable way to reach the state's air quality goals."

Lancers baseball drops one on the road, two at home

by Tricia Groenhoff

The Canby Lancers baseball team fell to the Central Minnesota Christian Blue Jays in Prinsburg last Monday before returning home to take on the MACCRAY Wolverines last Tuesday and the Hancock Owls on Friday, losing to both.

The boys will be going to Ruthton on Thursday to take on Russell-Tyler-Ruthton and will return home Friday to host Lac qui Parle Valley.

CMCS 6 Canby 3

The Lancers fell behind quickly, giving up two runs in the first inning and four in the second without being able to pass home themselves.

They got the bats going in the third, bringing in two runs, while holding CMCS at zero. They continued to shut down the Bluejays the remainder of the game but marked one more run on the board, causing them to fall on the wrong side of the 6-3 final score.

The Lancers had six hits with Easton Antony and Tanner Drietz each getting a pair. Antony brought in two of the Lancers' three runs for the night. Hunter Cleveland led the way in RBIs with Canby's only two.

MACCRAY 15 Canby 3

The first inning of the game looked promising for the Lancers with them topping the Wolverines by two runs, 3-1.

Things went downhill from there though. Canby was unable to put up anymore points, while giving up another 14 to MACCRAY, ending the game in five innings, 15-3.

GETTING DIRTY

During the Lancers' game against MACCRAY last week, Liam MacArthur blocks the ball from passing after a wild pitch.

The Lancers were led by Kaden Reyerson who was 1-of-2 with an RBI. He was followed by Hunter Cleveland who was 1-of-3 with an RBI and a run.

Cleveland pitched the first four innings of the game, chalking up five strike outs. Reyerson stepped in on the last inning, earning two strikes outs of his own.

The Lancers looked stronger against the Owls on Friday, sticking with them in the first two innings with four runs to Hancock's five.

Hancock pulled ahead in the third, putting up three runs and holding Canby to zero, bringing the score to 8-4.

The tables turned again in the fourth with the Lancers scoring five runs to the Owls' one, tying up the game at nine.

The Lancers gave up two runs in the fifth and weren't able to regain the lead again, falling to the Owls 14-11.

Kaden Reyerson led the Lancers offensively, going 3-of-5 with three RBIs. Tanner Drietz, Jordan Ries, Rylee Sigler and Evan Engesmoe each had a pair of runs.

Tanner Drietz pitched the first four innings of the game, giving up one walk and striking out three batters. Ries followed him, pitching three innings with one strike out and giving up three walks.

"We fell behind early but were able to battle back into the game but fell short at the end," said Coach Nick Kockelman. "Pitching and hitting were better than we have been, but our defense needs to improve in order to win games when we throw strikes and hit the ball as well as we did."

Minneota-Canby Vikings softball wins two on the road, splits at home

by Tricia Groenhoff

The Minneota-Canby Vikings softball team turned things around last week after going winless the week prior. The girls started their week off in Granite Falls, bringing home two easy wins, before splitting with Tracy-Milroy-Balaton at home on Thursday.

The Vikings hosted Russell-Tyler-Ruthton last night and will go to Clara City tonight to makeup their game with MACCRAY. Stats for both games will be in next week's Canby News.

Minneota-Canby 17 YME 3

The Vikings made easy work of the Sting in the first game of the night, starting off with a double by Ava Larson scoring one run in the first. The Sting tied the game up, scoring off a wild pitch by Larson before heading into the second.

The Vikings took over from there, putting up five runs in the third and another six in the fourth, leaving YME in the dust, 13-2. Minneota ended the game in five innings, putting up four more runs to the Sting's one, 17-3.

Abby Rost led the Vikings' hitting 1-of-2 with three RBIs and three runs. Following her was Abby Hennen, going 2-of-4 with two RBIs and two runs. Ashlee Cole chalked up four runs of her own.

CANBY ELEMENTARY SCHOOL CLASSES OF THE WEEK

SECOND GRADE

Mrs. Pesek's Class

Mrs. Drietz's Class

Mrs. Pesek & Mrs. Drietz

It's a great day to be a Lancer!

HOW LONG HAVE YOU BEEN IN TEACHING?

- Mrs. Allyson Pesek: 17 years
- Mrs. Amy Drietz: 24 years

WHAT SPECIAL ACTIVITIES DOES YOUR CLASS DO DURING THE YEAR?

We start second grade learning all about elephants. We compare their sizes. We talk about how they work together in groups. We read, research and write a report on elephants too. In math, we focus hard on learning how to add and subtract 2-digit numbers. We do Friday fact tests to really help the students learn and master these skills. In December, we travel around the world as we learn about how other countries celebrate the holidays. In January, we do everything dinosaurs. Each student reads, researches, and writes a report on a dinosaur. We also put on a class play "Little Grunt and the Big Egg." We also have an ongoing project all school year called 50 Nifty where we write letters to people around the United States and gather information about the 50 states. We conclude this project in May when each student creates their own US map. One of our most exciting things in second grade is watching our students grow as readers. Many of our students start the year learning how to read. Then they end the year reading to learn. It is an amazing transition to watch!

WHAT HAS BEEN THE MOST MEMORABLE MOMENTS THIS YEAR?

- "Being able to be in school with my classmate and teachers."
- "The Halloween parade because we got to go to the football field"
- "The big dinosaur paintings and doing the play 'Little Grunt and the Big Egg'"
- "Having a Valentine party"
- "Doing our One School One Book and watching 'The One and Only Ivan'"

WHAT DO OUR STUDENTS THINK ABOUT THE YEAR OF COVID?

- "It was not my favorite, but I am handling it"
- "I can't wait until it ends"
- "I don't like wearing masks at school but I am grateful to be in school"
- "It was hard because of quarantining"
- "It was alright, but I am excited for it to be done"

School board continued from page 1

Nielsen recommended approving hiring a full-time special education teacher, as was discussed as the board's previous meeting. The board approved adding the position.

The board approved the resignation of Gina Zaske.

The PACT for Families collaborative social worker contract for Brian Skogen was approved at Nielsen's recommendation. This comes at a cost of a little under $65,000. The contract is exactly the same as it's always been.

The budget for the summer academy has been approved, and curriculum has been ordered. More information about that is being sent out.

Nielsen presented a design for the gym floor to the board and asked for their opinions. It is all stain, not paint, except for the mascot in the middle. It was commented that the floors of the gyms for the NCAA tournament were stained.

Insurance will not cover the water damage to the brick at the high school, but the school will proceed with repairing the falling brick before the roof project gets to that area of the school.

Board member Angela Lepke questioned the snow day that was forgiven during the last meeting. It was the day before Christmas and was planned to be a half day. She asked whether it was also forgiven for staff or if there was a day planned for them to make it up.

Nielsen responded that the staff will need to make up the day, but it will be left up to the staff to get it done however it works for them. The school isn't specifying a day that they must come in.

To end the meeting, the board spent an hour discussing goal setting for the upcoming school year and beyond.

Board member Jaci Weber mentioned that she would like to see more career and technical education (CTE) classes, listing building and first responder training as examples.

It was mentioned that CTE classes depend on what the current teachers are able to teach.

A lack of business classes was mentioned, and options were discussed for more classes that could be held in that area.

Slaba spoke about options for classes and how scheduling works, stating that most students will try to get their classes in the morning and free up their seventh and eighth periods; therefore, a class offered only eighth period, for example, will usually have fewer students than a similar class first period.

Slaba also said that classes for 7-10th grades are pretty generic, and in their junior and senior years, students get more choice.

It was said that teachers are passionate in different areas, and when they show their passion, the students flock to their classes.

Weber asked whether equal opportunities were available for students heading to a two year school after graduation versus a four year school.

Slaba admitted that there may be a bit of a lack for two year students and added that the percentage of graduates going to two year schools has increased greatly in recent years.

Slaba also handed out a list of all classes students can choose from, though he stated that they don't run unless enough students sign up for them, so most don't run on a regular basis.

Many more desires for the programming for the school were discussed, and Harding mentioned that they should have a bit of a goal setting time on a regular basis versus only once a year. Goal setting will henceforth be on the agenda for the first meeting of each month.

The next meeting of the Canby School Board will be Monday, May 17, at 5:30 p.m.

Do not touch or move deer fawns

With deer fawns starting to be born, the DNR asks that people avoid disturbing or touching them.

Most fawns are born from mid-May to mid-June, and they do not attempt to evade predators during their first few weeks of life. Instead, they remain still to avoid being seen. During these times, fawns are learning critical survival skills from their mothers but are often left on their own while their mothers forage nearby.

Be assured, deer fawns do fine even if they look abandoned or fragile. Even if a fawn is wounded or abandoned as a result of car strike or animal attack, people should not transport it before speaking with a wildlife rehabilitator.

TYLEE'S TALES

By Tylee Groenhoff

Prom was last weekend. I had so much fun, but I don't believe I will ever recover from staying up as late as I did. I have finished out the week with going to bed at anywhere between 7 and 8 p.m. and getting up as late as possible. Again, I may not recover for a few years.

I wrote a story about sleeping; who would have known I am now always asleep? I enjoyed prom, don't forget that, but I will never ever, ever stay up that late for any reason. Heck, it is possible that I may have fallen asleep on the table around 1 a.m. at post prom. While everyone else was playing bingo, I was taking a nice siesta after my hard fiesta.

I danced the night away. I played a few games of bingo (won and done), I stayed alert to see if Joshua won anything fun. then ... boom I was out like a light. If nothing was keeping me interested, my eyes were closing. It might take me until next year's prom to recover from my all nighter. Yep, my parents should be super worried about me going out to parties; I would be the one napping in the corner.

Every day since prom, I have come home, layed wherever I fell and slept. Some nights, I would stay up past 10 p.m., after I took a nice couple hour nap but felt like death when it came to waking up in the morning.

I was extremely exhausted after our softball games, Friday and Saturday ended with very early nights. Guys, I didn't even shower before bed!

I finished out the week with getting to work. I worked at a job that I'm pretty sure most of my family didn't know I still had. Can we say slacker?! I worked, but man, I was a walking zombie. Of course, we were super busy which meant I came home and fought myself not fall asleep. Instead, I went outside to practice some softball; the fresh air helped me remain among the living until 10 p.m. It's a miracle! I actually was awake to speak to my family.

So maybe I will recover, or maybe I will be tired for the rest of my life from staying up one night.

Can prom maybe be during the day from now on? Now, okay, I will start storing up my sleep.

BY: LAURA THOMAS
DIRECTOR OF AGING WELL
PRAIRIE FIVE COMMUNITY ACTION COUNCIL

Lois Hegna's Christmas gift-opening this past December took quite a turn when she got to the present from her daughter. "I opened it up and thought, 'oh my gosh, what do I do with this!'" The 90-year-old resident of Granite Falls continued, "I'm glad she gave it to me now, but if she had asked me, I probably would have told her no! I've never had a computer. I didn't know the language of it even!"

Mrs. Hegna was a participant in the tablet education classes that Prairie Five offered with the Granite Falls Senior Center. I had so much fun spending time with her and was deeply inspired by her exuberance for learning and exploring. In the four months' time she's had her tablet, she's gone from learning how to turn it on and off to scanning QR-codes in Cooks Illustrated magazines and watching the accompanying videos of recipe preparation. She said what's most fun about having a tablet is, "you hear about something and you go 'Oh, I want to learn more about that, so you go look it up, and it's really interesting!'"

One of the first web sites she learned to navigate was Facebook. "I'd always heard about it. I thought it would be fun to see because everyone was posting. My son posts a lot of pictures - he lives out in Portland. Now I can see all those pictures." The social aspect is something many new users come to quickly enjoy. Keeping up with family and friends, being able to communicate with grandkids who prefer typing to talking, and sharing birthday wishes with pictures are all easily accomplished with a few taps on the screen.

Mrs. Hegna explained that there are moments of frustration when she tries over and over to figure something out but can't get it. She also described the hesitation when she first began. "I was afraid I'd be touching the wrong things and get into something I wouldn't know how to get out of. I found out you can't really do much wrong to it." Overall, it's been a positive and life-changing experience. "I can spend two hours on it in no time. It's just so fun to look at what people post and go on the Internet and look up things. In the evenings when there's nothing on TV, it's a lot of fun to use."

Something I've heard from folks who are unsure about trying a tablet is they don't know if they would be able to figure it out. When I mentioned this, Mrs. Hegna responded, "Well, I probably didn't think I was that smart either because I hadn't used one before. I would say go ahead, be daring and try it! You can't lose anything."

GENERAL NOTICE TO CONTROL OR ERADICATE NOXIOUS WEEDS

Notice is hereby given this 12th day of May 2021, pursuant to Minnesota Statutes, Section 18.83, Subdivision 1 (2009), that all persons in Yellow Medicine County, Minnesota, shall control or eradicate all noxious weeds on land they occupy or are required to maintain. Control or eradication may be accomplished by any lawful method, but the method(s) applied may need to be repeated in order to prevent the spread of viable noxious weed seeds and other propagating parts to other lands. Failure to comply with the general notice may mean that an individual notice, Minnesota Statutes, Section 18.83, Subdivision 2 (2009), will be issued. An individual notice may be appealed within two working days of receipt to the appeal committee in the county where the land is located. Failure to comply with an individual notice will mean that the inspector having jurisdiction may either hire the work done or seek a misdemeanor charge against the person(s) who failed to comply. If the work is hired done by the inspector, the cost can be placed as a tax upon the land and collected as other real estate taxes are collected. You may obtain a list of the plants that are designated noxious and the members of the appeal committee from your County Agricultural Inspector or County-Designated Employee. You can also obtain this information from your Local Weed Inspectors. Local Weed Inspectors include the township supervisors, city mayors or their appointed assistants. More information regarding the MN Noxious Weed Law can be obtained from the Minnesota Department of Agriculture's Web Site by visiting: <http://www.mda.state.mn.us/weedcontrol>.

In addition to the statewide listed noxious weeds designated by the Minnesota Department of Agriculture, Bull Thistle (Cirsium Vulgare) and Musk Thistle (Carduus nutans) have been approved for listing on the County-Listed Noxious Weeds in Yellow Medicine County, by the Yellow Medicine County Board of Commissioners, as permitted by Minnesota Statutes 18.79, Subds. 13 and 14. Contact your county agricultural inspector for more information regarding County Noxious Weeds.
